H.H. Robertson Floor Systems Completes Projects for U.S. Armed Forces
Comprehensive flooring systems installed in three locations in the U.S and Afghanistan

Ambridge, Pa., February 1, 2012— H.H. Robertson Floor Systems recently completed three installations of the company’s in-floor wire distribution system for the U.S. armed forces. The projects include: a call center in Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; a command and control center in Kandahar, Kandahar Province, Afghanistan; and a brigade headquarters in Shank, Loghar Province, Afghanistan.

“No military on earth is as technologically advanced as the U.S. armed forces, but with all of the complex communications systems and technology used by our military, H.H.R’s in-floor cabling distribution systems offer a unique solution for their specific needs,” said Kevin Daily, marketing manager, H. H. Robertson Floor Systems. “We’re extremely proud that we were chosen for these projects and that in some small way we contributed to helping our armed forces do their very important work—both at home and abroad.”

These projects were not the first of their kind for H.H. Robertson. In 2007, the company installed its flooring system for the U.S. Navy’s Battle Station 21 Recruit Training Center, in Great Lakes, Ill.

H.H. Robertson’s systems reduce or eliminate the need for other building materials—such as conduit, cable trays, power poles, poke-thru devices, access floor panels, pedestals and others—when cabling a building. In addition, the company was granted Cradle to Cradle® Certification at the Silver Level, a key metric in sustainable building that demonstrates a product meets established standards for human health, environmental health and recyclability.

H.H. Robertson Floor Systems is a division of CENTRIA and is located in Ambridge, Pa. The company produces cellular floor raceway systems used for wire distribution in offices, casinos, libraries and schools. For more information about H.H.
